about a thousand people, who were very hearty in their applause: This is what Mr. Bryan said:
"I met some of the Concord people this morning at Charlotte. I am glad to see the rest of you now. In my short time I cannot do better than call attention to a few questions, and give you an answer, so you can use them in hand-to-hand discussion. Conversions are not Just as Mr. Bryan was boarding his train he was presented with the foot of a rabbit, killed at midnight in a churcha rabbit, stilled at mindight in a church-yard, during the dark of the moon. Those who saw the presentation manifested their appreciation of the incident by ex-ercising their lungs, and just as the train moved off the candidate called out: "If all the people who have given me rabtion."

This was Mr. Bryan's Salisbury speech:
"I am informed that Andrew Jackson was a law student in this city, and I am glad to tread the soil made sacred by the hero of New Orleans. (Applause.)
The principles for which I stand before he people are the principles taugh y Jackson, when he was the idel, not o bemocracy alone, but of the great common people, whom he at all times de fended. (Appiause.) When Jackson wa Fresident his greatest fight was agains the United States national banks. Thos connected with that great banking in-fluence denounced him, and applied to him just as abusive epithets as the money-owning and changing class ap-plied to Thomas Jefferson before him MASSES AND CLASSES. "The masses are interested in a gov-ernment which guarantees equal rights to all and confets special privileges on none. It is the classes who want to use none. It is the classes who want to use the instrumentalities of government for private gain. The masses are too busy trying to make a living and bearing the burdens imposed on them to crowd around legislative halfs and spend a large amount to secure legislation which will enable them to get a larger amount out of the people. If the government will protect each citizen in the enjoyment of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, it is all that should be asked.

"We are now engaged in an effort to make the pursuit of happiness more to the masses than a mere did pursuit with the masses than a mere idle pursuit with no prospect of overtaking that happi-ness. Our opponents seek to monopolize the opportunities of this country, and let the opportunities of this country, and let the trust's and combinations of wealth shut the doors of opportunity against the humbler members of society. (A volue: Look this way.) I am glad you re-minded me of it, because there were so many on this side, I did not suppose there were any more left to get on the other side. (Laughter.)

I am gind to note the intense interest "I am giad to note the intense interest in this campaign. I have noticed it all along the line. I have noticed it almong young men who are anxious to establish themselves and build up a competency. I have noticed it among the old men who are praying that before their days are ended they may see the money of the Constitution restored. (Applause.) I have noticed it among the mothers and wives, who have been in every audience.

who, in the hope of better days, have planned for the higher education of their children, in order that the children might begin the battle of life with greater advantages than their parents, but who have been compelled to keep the children at home in order to keep the wolf from the door, you would understand what the gold standard means. It means a lower and lower order of civilization, and if continued, we will sink down to where the few own all the wealth and the many are simply dependent tenants.

(Applause.) They realize they cannot afford to separate themselves from those with whem their interests and sympathics lie." (Cheers.)
Another large audience was at Lexing ton, where Mr. Bryan said:

A TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

"In this campaign, where our enemies are united against us, our friends are also united, and, with the help of the Democratic party, which adopted a piat-form at Chicago which is pervaded with a spirit of American independence, and to those forces there brought together

In company with Governor Carr. exSenator Jarvis. Colonel Julian Carr. of Durham; Major Hale. of Fayetteville, and other prominent North Carolinians, Mr.
Bryan reached Greensboro' on his special train, via the Southern railway at 12:55 o'clock, this afternoon. A great crowd at the station, including hundreds of excursionists from near by points, shouted vigorously as Mr. Bryan stepped to the station platform and was driven through the dusty main thoroughfare of the quaint old town. Several thousand people, yelling loudly, followed the Bryan carriage, conspicoous by its red, white, and blue decorations, and the four horses and blue decorations, and the four horses

At the stand where the speaking took place, situated near the station, several thousand people cheered Mr. Bryan to the echo when he appeared. He made a short speech, was frequently applauded, and left Durham for Raleigh at 6:10.

SPEECH AT DURHAM.

In Durham Mr. Bryan spoke as "Mr. Chairman, Ladies, and Gentlemen: The time given for a speech at this place is very limited, and I can occupy it in discussing three questions raised by our opponents against the free coinage of silver.

"In the first place they tell us that the value of silver bullion has fallen bethe value of silver buillon has fallen be-cause of overproduction. They refer to the fact that the annual production of silver has increased more rapidly during the last twenty years than the annual production of gold, and this, they say, explains the fall in the value of silver buillon as measured by gold. Let me answer that argument by calling your attention to the fact that during the last twe years of the twenty years beforementioned the works annual produc-tion of gold has increased more rapidly than the world's annual production of silver. During the last five years the value of silver has fallen more, when value of silver has tailen more, when measured by gold, than during any five years in the history of the world. If you want to explain the fall in the gold price of silver by taking twenty years, how can you explain the still greater fall in the last five years, during which the gold has increased in production more rapidly than silver? This one fact demonstrate that you must look elsewhere monstrates that you must look elsewhere for the cause of this apparent fall in the value of silver. Where do you find ANTI-SILVER LEGISLATION. . "You find it in legislation and not in production. Price depends upon supply and demand, and if you decrease the demand the effect is the same as if you increase the price. Legislation has decreased the demand, India suspended the free coinage of silver. The United States atopped the purchase of 54,000,000 ounces of silver a year, and our administration has been hostile to silver and has thrown discredit upon it as a money, metal. All these influences have combined of silver and of metal. All these influences have combined to destroy the demand for silver, and of hostile legislation and not natural laws we must complain. We could not cure natural laws. We can cure vicious legislation, and we believe that the opening of our mints to the free coinage of silver will restore a demand sufficient to take all the silver that comes, and thus also the value of silver builton to $1.29.

along the line. I have noticed it among young men who are anxious to establish themselves and build up a competency. I have noticed it among the old men who are praying that before their days are ended they may see the money of the Constitution restored. (Applause) I have noticed it among the mothers and wives, who have been in every audience crowding around the platform, because they especially have felt the pressure of the gold standard. Living expenses have not been reduced, while the debts and the lakes of the farmer have held up. I am not surprised they take an interest. If you could enter the homes of this nation and see how hope deferred has made the lake if you could see parents, ulse the value of sliver bullion to $1.25

the price of it will rise. Another point:
They tell you that you cannot legislate two metals together, because of their varying production, but they forget that when the government stands ready to take all the gold at a certain price, and all the silver at a certain price, and convert those two metals into money at that price and ratio, it becomes immaterial whether you produce one ounce of one or ten of the other, or reverse the proportions. There cannot be a change affected in the ratio until the government fails in its ability to consume, or rather to take and utilize all of both presented."

RECEPTION AT RALEIGH.

North Carolina's capital city had William J. Bryan for its guest for two hours to-night. Mr. Bryan arrived at 7 o'clock, with Governor Carr and others, and was met at the Southern railway station by a reception committee, a flambeau club, and a brass band. He was escorted to and a brass band. He was escotted to wash Square, a beautiful open park, near the station, where 6,000 people had gathered, in defiance of the heat, to hear him. The speaking stand was aglow with electric lights, the name "Bryan" being displayed in big electric letters over the place where the Demogratic candidate stood.

At each corner of the square big bonfires burned, and they threw the big crowd into picturesque relief. Cheer after cheer went up as the candidate ascended the stand, Clement Manley, the chairman of the Democratic State Committee, and Hal Ayer, the chairman of the Populist State Committee, presided jointly over the meeting.

After his speech Mr. Bryan went to the Park Hotel and held a reception, the corridors and lobby and the streets outside being packed with people while it lasted.
9 o'clock.

The Democrats, by virtue of priority of notice, assembled in the court-house; the Republicans on the court-green. H. V. Strayer, elector in the Seventh Congressional District; Mr. Thomas, of Stanards-idle, and Mr. Gipson, of Madison, adiressed the house, filled to overflowing with attentive listeners. Captain Rieves, of Charlottesville, and Mr. Louthan, of Madison, spoke to a nixed, confused, and unsettled mass on the outside. in this historic city are about as perfect as they could well be, and the candidate's brief stay here will be pretty burg by a committee of gentlemen, repriage, drawn by four handsome horses, to the Jefferson. Should the time permit it, Mr. Bryan and those with him will take dinner at that elegant hostelry, and then proceed to the Exposition-Grounds, where the speaking will take place in the Auditorium.

DETAILS OF ARRANGEMENTS. This spacious building will hold, it is claimed, about 14,000 to 15,000 people. The general arrangements for handling the immense crowd which will assemble there to hear Mr. Bryan have aiready been published in the Dispatch, and the the visiting newspaper men, and also all holders of green tickets will enter the Auditorium by the rear doors, as will who come to hear the great leader. Behind these will be the county chairmen and presidents of the Democratic clubs of the State, and then will come the rank and file of the Democracy.

COMMITTEE TO MEET HIM. COMMITTEE TO MEET HIM.

The committee appointed by the City Democratic Committee last night to go to Petersburg to-day to meet Mr. Bryan and party is composed of Colonel John S. Harwood, Hon. Thomas B. Murphy, Hon. J. Taylor Ellyson, Marion L. Dawson, Jefferson Wallace, Cunningham Hall, John H. Redwood, Charles M. Wallace, L. Lynes W. Gordon and Charles at the station. Senator Daniel was expected to reach the city last night, but failed to do so. He will probably come in on one of the morning trains.

At the Auditorium State-Chairman Ellyson will preside, and present Senator Daniel, and the Senator will introduce Daniel, and the Senator will introduce Mr. Bryan. The acoustics of the Auditorium are very good for so large a hall, and it is assured that every one present will be able to hear most of the great speech Mr. Bryan is expected to make. The candidate's address will probably consume about an hour, and by special 'arrangements, made by State-Chairman Ellyson, who is anxious that everybody who desires to see and hear Mr. Bryan shall be afforded an opportunity to do so, the presidential nominee will be driven down to the Jefferson. mee will be driven down to the Jefferson, where those who are not able to get in the Auditorium will be addressed briefly by the westerner. Should it be raining this evening the overflow meeting will be held at some other place.

MANY VISITORS COMING.

The reduced railroad rates to the big meeting, coupled with the desire of Virginia Democrats to see and hear the candidate for President, will bring a large number of visitors to the city to-day. Indeed, a good many came in on last night's trains. Some of the most prominent party men who will be here are Senators Daniel and Martin, Congressman William A. Jones; Hon. James Hay, nominee of the Democratic party for Congress; Judge Garnett, of Mathews; State-Senator James N. Stubbs, of Gloucester; Colonel R. C. Marshall, of Portsmouth; Mr. W. O. Hardaway, president of the Roanoke Bryan and Sewall Club; Hon. Joseph E. Willard, of Fairfax; Mr. Ebb Thompson, of Portsmouth. Persons who arrived yesterday report that great numbers will come to-day. It is expected that farmers will drive to the city from considerable distances. The railroads have made provisions for handling the crowds, however large. MANY VISITORS COMING. .

STATEMENT AS TO TICKETS. STATEMENT AS TO TICKETS.

There is a great desire on the part of the people to hear Mr. Bryan, and those in charge of the arrangements for the meeting were besieged yesterday for tickets of admission. The authorized statement was made a few days ago that no tickets would be required for any part of the Auditorium, except the platform and the reservation for the press, but a publication made yesterday with reference to "surprise" tickets caused a good deal of confusion, as well as feeling. People poured in at headquarters to in-out, and if there are any others in existence, they are not authorized and will not be recognized:

H'dquarters City Democratic Committee, Richmond, Va., September 17, 1896.

To the Editor of the Times:

The statement in your paper to-day about reserve seats on the floor of the Auditorium, and headed "Some Surprise Tickets," is so misleading that we beg that you will allow us to correct it. Finding it necessary in consequence of the immenses crowd expecting to visit Richmond on the night of the 18th instant to make some special provision for those who could not be accommodated on the stage, and yet who were entitled to special recognition on the occasion, the City Committee ordered 500 extra tickets to be printed, and these were directed by the committee having the matter in charge to be distributed as follows: Seventy-five tickets for members of the press, 125 for city and county chaltmen. 175 for presidents of visiting Democratic ciubs, and the remaining tickets to be distributed equally among the members of the City Committee. I am sure that no one can take any exception to the desire of the City Committee to hospitably entertain the representatives of the Democratic party who shall assemble here on the occasion of Mr. Bryan's meeting; certainly no citizen of Richmond can object to the reservation of so small a number of seats for such a purpose, for whilst it is true that the holders of these tickets will secure good seats, and ought to do so, it is not true, as stated in your article that "those who have not fortunate enough to obtain one will be forced to sit under the low galeries, where it is difficult to catch what is said by the speaker on the stage." So far from this being true, there are over 19,000 seats which are unreserved, and can be used by those who shall first come to take them. We very much regret that you should have thought proper to have so misrepresented the committee without asking an explanation from some officer who could have given it to you, particularly since we have endeavored to

It was 1:15 o'clock when Chairman West again called the convention to or-der, but there was so much trouble and confusion in seating the delegates that the hall was cleared and several sergeants-at-arms were appointed to seat delegates in proper order as they came in. This caused considerable delay and confusion, and it was fully thirty minutes confusion, and it was fully thirty minutes before any business was transacted. Then it was that the chairman of the Committee on Credentials, Mr. T. W. Willox, reported that there were no contests and that the Second District was entitled to 184 delegates. The report was adopted.

"The Democratic party of the State of New York, in convention assembled, uareservedly endorses the platform adopted by the Democratic party at the national convention held in Chicago on July 7, 1886; cordially approves the nominations there made; pledges to William J. Bryan and Arthur Sewall its hearty and active support, and declares as its deliberate judgment that never in the history of the Democratic party has a platform been written which embodied more completely the interests of the whole people, as distinguished from those who seek legislation for private benefit, than that given to the country by the National Democratic Convention of 1886."

The remainder of the platform was devoted to State politics.

When he had finished reading the platform, Mr. York moved the previous question on its adoption. There were shouts of "No." Henry D. Purroy rose and protested. He was rapped down. The Chair ordered a roll-call on the question as to the appeal from the decision of the Chair.

Mr. Purroy declared that his appeal was from the decision of the Chair, declaring the previous question carried, and stiffing the voice of the questioner. Half a dozen delegates tried to be heard. The ayes were in support of the Chair, and the noes were against it.

Mr. Purroy protested, and was rapped down by the Chair's gavel. Senator Guy rose to a point of order, but was not recognized.

He protested against the stiffing of free speech, and declared himself unqualifiedly for Bryan and Sewall and the Chicago platform, and declared that every delegate who so desired should be given an opportunity to express his support of the national ticket.
